Art Unit: 2111

1. Claims 1-10, 32-38, 52, and 54-56 remain for examination.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 9 and 32-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

(a) Claim 9, "said instruction processor" lacks antecedent basis, and it is not clear from what the register receives the instructions.

(b) Claim 32, it is not clear whether the same instruction is output to both the first and second decoders from the instruction processor circuit (and whether a different instruction is output just to the second decoder). Last paragraph, lines 3 and 4 are ambiguous and contradictory.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-7, 10, 32-35, 37, 38, 52, and 54-56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Black et al, U.S. Patent No. 5,619,408, cited in the previous office action.

The rejection is respectfully maintained for the reason set forth in the previous office action incorporated herein by reference and for the reason that the relative positional order of the cache memory and the instruction processing circuit with respect to the decoder is a design choice.

The instruction processor circuit performs a pre-decoding process and can be position before or after the cache memory. The reference teaches in figures 1 and 2 how a pre-decoding process can be position before or after a cache memory (col. 2, lines 28 and 46; col. 3, lines 1 and 6).

Placing the pre-decode logic 104 (incorporating the function of IDR logic 46) before or after the cache memory is an alternate design choice (col. 6, lines 62 and 67), as the reference teaches that by placing the IDR logic 46 before the cache memory (in a noncritical timing path) performance can be enhanced.

6. Applicant's arguments filed February 2, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argued that the reference does not teach an instruction processing circuit positioned between a cache memory and the decoder and that Fig. 2 does not teach the recoding (instruction substitution) performed by IDR 46.

The significance of the position of the instruction processor circuit with respect to the cache memory and the decoder is a matter of design choice as described in paragraph 5 above.

The additional function of recoding performed by IDR 46 is a pre-decode processing and can be incorporated in the pre-decode logic 104 (in addition to the illegal instruction detection function performed by both the pre-decode logic 104 and the IDR 46), as demonstrated in the respective position of IDR 46 in the analogous figure Fig. 4.

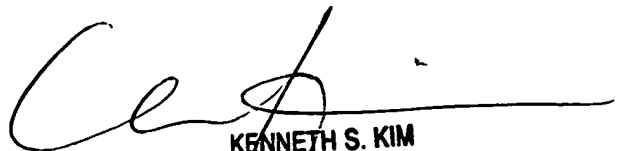

7. Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent on a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if written in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. Claim 36 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
